ARCH.SUMMER – 2024 summer contemporary architecture in the historic context THE SUMMER SCHOOL program

Team work format

Language of teaching: Russian and English

Credential: 4 ECTS, or 72 academic hours

Learning Format: In person

Registration deadline: 20 June, 2024

Cost: 350 Euro (accommodation at SPbGASU dormitory included)

Participation in the Summer School provides young architects with the opportunity to visit a unique place of Russia - the city of Vyborg located in the Leningrad region.

Students will prepare their own design projects of modern tourists` facilities within a historical surrounding.

The Summer School participants will visit Vyborg, explore the city and its architectural sites such as Central City Public Library (arch. A.Alato), the knight`s castle of the 13th century, and historical fortifications.

Not only will you touch the history and culture of the ancient place but also will design your project of a touristic site within a historical surrounding.

The first theoretical part includes series of excursions and lectures carried out by experienced teachers and specialists of SPbGASU. You will learn about design principles of modern tourists` facilities within a historical context as well as the public space formation. An important part of the program will be a site assessment for further designing.

During the second part of the Summer School program each student will design his/her own project under the guidance of teachers. They will build a model of a tourist complex that includes a residential unit and an architectural environment around it, using a laser cutting technology.

The Summer School helps individuals to improve their teamwork skills, enhance skills in analytical and practical work in the architectural design field through international group work, seminars and classes with mentors.

Participation in Arch.Summer - 2024 will allow you:

- Discover the architecture of tourist complexes
- Gain new knowledge
- Develop skills in architectural design
- Train under the guidance of experienced specialists
- Work in an international team
- Expand your network of professional contacts
